John P. McCulloch, Oakland County Water Resources Commissioner, invites Oakland County High School students to participate in the WRC's first annual high school art contest and high school public service announcement (PSA) contest. The contests are designed to increase awareness about Oakland County's waterways and promote environmental protection. The winner of the art contest will have his or her art displayed in several public buildings throughout the year. The winning rendering also will be published on the WRC Web site and featured on a holiday card. The student with the best PSA will have his or her announcement played on the WRC Web site and on other public and private outlets.
